Kansas City may yet lose the Republican convention unless its representatives convince the special arrangements committee of the Republican National committee when it meets here next Thursday that it can and will provide the necessary accommodations.

The State Railroad commission yesterday ordered the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company to submit its books and records for examination by auditors of that body.

The conviction of Thomas W. Miller, former Alien Property custodian during the World War, for detaining the government has been upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover yesterday characterized the American business situation as essentially sound "but mixed." He added that a detailed interpretation of early 1928 business activities was not feasible until government data on commerce and industry become available several days hence.

On work less than $50,000, six per cent of the contract will be charged, and on contracts in excess of $50,000 five and a half per cent will be charged. All fees will be turned into the city treasury.

In addition to these fees the actual cost of inspection work will be added.

Council Decides To Hold Property

After some discussion at the meeting of the council last evening, it was decided by the members that the policy of the city in the future would be not to dispose of any realty that is owned.

K. D. Speer of 2530 Rheem avenue, in a communication to the council last evening objected to a proposed program of new street lights, stating that while lights were getting more numerous, that taxes were increasing.

At the meeting of the council last evening the members went on record as favoring an all-year road over the Sierras for northern California. At the next meeting a formal resolution will be adopted that will be prepared by City Attorney T. M. Carlson, and Mayor Mattie Chandler will appoint a committee to attend a conference at Sacramento February 17, at which the North Fork Feather River Highway association will urge on the highway commission and the governor, the taking of the necessary action.

At the present time, about six months of the year, tourists are not able to cross the Sierras on account of the roads being blocked with snow, and these visitors are compelled to take the southern California route.

George McKenzie To Wed Heiress

MARTINEZ, Feb. 6. — Miss Dorothy Migliavacca, former Napa girl and daughter of J. H. The romance quickly ripened under Hawaiian skies and on the moonlight beach at Waikiki, Miss Migliavacca promised to become Mrs. George McKenzie. A radio-gram received today by the girl's father in San Francisco stated that she had gone to Lihue, Island of Kauai to become McKenzie's bride.

RICHMOND'S LOW FIRE LOSS PRAISED

THREE BRIDGE COMPANIES TO ASK FRANCHISE

Formal hearing of applications of Roy O. Long of Berkeley, and Charles Van Damme of San Rafael for a franchise to construct a toll bridge across San Pablo bay from Albany to Marin county will be heard this morning at a special session of the county board of supervisors in Martinez.

The application of T. A. Tomasi to build a similar structure from Albany to Marin county will be heard by the Alameda county supervisors Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The Contra Costa supervisors yesterday definitely fixed the time of hearing for the franchise applications of Long and Van Damme.

FIRMS WITHDRAW
Applications for the same franchise, presented by the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, Inc., of which Long is president, and the Richmond-San Rafael Ferry Company, headed by Van Damme, pending for several months, were dismissed by Attorneys A. F. Bray and M. R. Jones, counsel for the two concerns.

The individual applications, are, in effect, substitutes for the corporate bids, which were withdrawn because of confusion created by a recent Supreme Court decision affecting the powers of corporations engaged in operation of toll bridges, toll wharves and kindred projects.

MARTINEZ, Feb. 6. — C. J. Glysson, youthful Richmond bookkeeper, charged with grand theft for alleged peculation of $304, waived his preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace A. A. Alstrom this morning and was held to trial in Superior Court. Glysson appeared before Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie this afternoon, but his arraignment was deferred until tomorrow.

The charge against Glysson was preferred by his former employer, Harry S. Curry, Richmond automobile dealer. He has retained Attorney Will Roberson to defend him.

Bloody Clothing Found In Boxcar

Finding of a bundle of blood stained clothes in a box car in the Santa Fe yards caused the local police to start an investigation.

A three piece suit, a suit of underclothes, two shirts, and a pair of carpenter's overalls, were the clothes found in the bundle. The box car in which the clothes were found, contained a stock of paper consigned to the California Paper Mills at Antioch. Blood stains on the clothes indicated that the blood was comparatively fresh.

Data informed the gathering of the essentials of accounting in business, explained how to interpret statistics given by outside agencies, described the limits that a merchant could go in his purchase of goods, and the profits that would ensue from this systematic management of a business. His talk was appreciated by all present, and L. Garfinkle thanked him on behalf of the assembled members.

Clifford Anglim, secretary of the association, read the report of the committee of five appointed to work with the Board of Directors of the association on the matter of increased lighting facilities along Macdonald avenue. The plan is to increase the lighting facilities from 12,000 candlepower below the brackets, as it now stands to 95,000 candle power. The report was laid aside for further reference.

Club Mendelssohn's Play Abounds In Comedy Roles

Comic operas without comedy are like cakes without sugar but the Club Mendelssohn's operetta, "In the Garden of the Shah" to be presented here Monday and Tuesday nights, February 20 and 21, in the California Theatre, teems with comedy and comic situations.

There are three comedy characters that the more serious side of the operetta, if romance is to be taken seriously. UNDERWRITERS PLACE CITY IN YEAR'S REPORT

A letter from the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York to Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, was read at the meeting of the council last evening. In it the fire chief was complimented for the wonderful record that had been made in Richmond during the past year, and it was stated that this city would be placed in its annual report in the future.

The writer said the record in Richmond was an unusually good one, and the fire loss was so low that it was believed it would be hard for any other city to equal it.

Married in 1893, the couple has five children, three of whom are grown.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE WRECK

MARTINEZ, Feb. 6.—That the Grand Jury may be asked to investigate the circumstances of the death of Joseph Sacco in an automobile wreck on the San Pablo tank farm hill last night was hinted today when George A. Belton, traffic captain, and District Attorney A. B. Tinning went to conference on the facts thus far brought to light.

According to Belton, the car, driven by Curran, a powerful twin-six, skidded 140 feet on the gravelled road to the Fairmede club and crashed into the steel power line tower. COUNCIL TAKES NO ACTION ON BUS SERVICE

Just what is to be the solution of the transportation problem for the people of the eastern section of the city, is not known at the present time.

The Key System has notified the city it will remove its bus on the fifteenth of this month.

At the meeting of the council last evening the matter was not discussed, except when one of the spectators asked if anything was being done. Councilman Paulsen said the members were at work on a solution of the matter but as yet there was nothing definite that could be made public.

In this connection, there was a bus of the Southern Pacific in this city yesterday that made several trips from Town and Barrett avenue along Barrett to San Pablo avenue, and then to Alvarado park, but just what it meant, no information has as yet been given out.

Supervisors Ask Highway Survey

The board of supervisors on Monday adopted a resolution asking that the State Highway Commission conduct a reconnaissance survey through this county in conjunction with a survey proposed by Alameda and San Joaquin counties for a highway from Stockton to Oakland.

Traffic conditions warrant a survey, according to the state officials, and in this survey will be proposed to make this tunnel highway a part of the state system. San Joaquin county has for some time been working upon such a project, as has Alameda county and the Tunnel highway proposal has long been pending before the state as a suggestion for a link in the state highway system.

The resolution adopted today was the result of a request made by the State Department of Public Works in a letter addressed to Assemblyman R. P. Egan, to Antioch and Senator Will R. Sharkey, in which they were asked to place this matter before the supervisors.

SPECIAL PERMIT GRANTED

A. G. M. Bruns of 204 Macdonald avenue will be permitted to install a latrine and plaster partition in his building providing the work is done to the satisfaction of the building and electrical inspectors.

Chief Cooper informed the council the fire in the structure was in bad condition and had been condemned by him a few months ago.

AUTOMOBILE BLACKSMITHING

Probably you did not know that the modern blacksmith has changed with the times. He no longer counts on shoeing old hobble or setting wagon wheels for a livelihood. His work now is in cooperation with the garage and the automobile owner.

Automobile wheels are given the right pitch; axles are straightened; springs are repaired and replaced. In fact the Automobile Blacksmith does much the same for the automobile as he formerly did for the carriage and the wagon. See the Buyers Guide on page four.

HIGHER PATRIOTISM

It is time for Congress to cease dillydallying and enact into law the bill providing retirement for emergency army officers disabled through war service.

For eight years the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, with the solid backing of other patriotic organizations, have been seeking relief for the non-professional soldiers who, when the call came, laid down their everyday callings and went into the army.

These men were without special training for the arduous task ahead.

They had not been singled out and drilled by experts in the tasks suddenly confronting them.

They entered the service through a single motive—patriotism.

When the war was over, Congress immediately made provision for the retirement of emergency officers of the navy and marine corps. The emergency officers of the army were left out in the cold. Then came the Tyson-Fitzgerald bill, directed to bring justice to the group of officers. Twice it passed the Senate, but never has been put to a vote in the House.

The bill should be made a law during the present session. Otherwise it may look from the outside as if patriotism is nothing but empty talk in Congress.

Men spend only twenty per cent of the money earned, therefore go to the women with your wares. They are the world's spenders and the ones to whom advertising must be directed. They spend eighty per cent of the world's money, directly or indirectly.

There is no inference that they spend it upon themselves, but they direct the spending for the multitudinous necessities for the home and the family, the needs, comforts, pleasures and luxuries and sales experts today agree that the sales campaigns today in order to be successful must be directed to the women.

A British celebrity advises the English to film Homer's Iliad and he declares that Hollywood can't do it. Is that so? Well, if anybody in pictures at Hollywood can read Greek all they have to do is to ask in a couple of restaurant men.

The government has ruled that no passports can be issued to persons about to be married. The papers will be issued only after the ceremony has actually been performed. The State Department is evidently awed of the old saying about the slip between the cup and the lip.

It has been denied that the congressional Record will run comic strips as a feature to popularize it—Atlanta Constitution.

Talented reporters have made it difficult to discuss a crime wave from a literary impulse—Washington Star.

How To EARN MONEY at HOME.

By Sara Spence

Most of the letters you write me, dear friends, I want to answer right away. Some require a little more time, to make sure of references or addresses, but a great many of you, I am sure, could help immediately. It is asking you to be too patient, to wait two weeks for a reply? You have been wonderfully considerate, and I know that those of you who inquire about schools would like the information at once. But I want to be fair to all, and I answer the letters strictly in order. And what a pile of them there is! I don't want you to be disappointed and I don't want you to feel that I forget or overlook a letter when you do not get an answer by return mail. I'll answer just as soon as I can, and I hope to always reply within two weeks time or less.

I have been looking for a position as caretaker of a summer home where I get my own home and so much a month. I don't know who to go to or who to write to. I am a widow with one child, and hope there is something you can do for me in this matter.—Mrs. H. T.

I wish I did know of some definite place, but unfortunately I don't. I would suggest that you watch the want ads, however, and advertise yourself. A caretaker is usually employed in some other capacity, too. If you can cook or work as a house maid mention this fact in your ad.

I would like to get in touch with a Mr. Tucker, whom I knew six or seven years ago, but I have found there are six or seven of the same name, and I do not know the first name. Is it correct to send them all letters?—A. B.

Yes, it would be quite all right. Mention your work, and since he was interested in it he will remember you, I am sure. Have you inquired at the post office? I think they might be able to help you reach him more quickly.

I am a good piano player and teacher, graduated from an Italian conservatory. I would be grateful to you to know the address of some reliable agencies for musicians.—J. B.

"Treasure Hunt" Makes Hit With Little Folk At Party

Dear Mrs. Hall-Deane:

My next door neighbor has twin boys almost 7 years of age. I am their godmother and love them dearly as if they were my own. I wish to make a birthday party for them in my home. What suggestions have you to offer for favors, games, decorations, and refreshments? The invited guests will include little boys and girls of age. I want to make this a party they will never forget.

Mrs. R. L. By making a round of the toy departments and shops you will be sure to find suitable novelties. You can find many fascinating little daddies from 10 to 15 cents each. For the boy guests who do not choose little airplanes for favors? If these do not appeal to you, there are trucks and autos that "go" when you wind them up, balls, balloons, etc. For the little girls there are dolls, wee sewing kits, miniature baskets filled with wholesome candies, jack rocks, and a thousand and one cunning toys so dear to the hearts of kiddies between the ages of 5 and 7.

A pleasing decoration for the center of your table would be one of the large toy airplanes or balloons, which are so easy to inflate. For flower pots or baskets at each place. These may be filled with real ice cream sugar, the "flower" made of spun sugar. For kiddies so young I would suggest as the most appropriate game a "hunt for hidden treasures." Any number of gayly colored, inexpensive trifles may be hidden about the room, and each little guest should be provided with a bag in which to place the treasure found.

"Finders will be keepers," of course, so each little guest will be permitted to carry the treasures home, and the one finding the greatest number may be given some extra trophy.

SONYA L. Use the following for dyeing slippers. Put the slippers in trees and then prepare an extra strong solution of the dye you have in mind. Double strength is best for this purpose. Then get a small brush and paint the dye well into the satin or brocade. Go over them two or three times until a good even shade is attained. Then let them slowly dry preferably in the air—but never near the fire.

BERTHA: There is no reason why the room which has a small window should give one that "stuffy" feeling, that sense of cramped space which so many such rooms give. In the first place your curtains should be of light color. Use a short net curtain and long draw curtains of cotton. If you choose a patterned curtain for the long curtain, better if they are simply all over a color. The long curtains you draw back the curtains in the daytime they will hang over the wall at the sides. Let the decorations and furnishings of such a room be as light in color as possible. If it is a cold room, without sunlight, you cannot do better than keep to shades of yellow, particularly those with a pale orange tint.

All Clothes Don't Need Pressing

Much time and energy is wasted in ironing articles which do not need to be pressed. Dish towels serve their purpose better if they are simply allowed to dry in the sun and air, for they will absorb more moisture and they will be smooth enough if folded carefully when taken off the line. The wise housekeeper also leaves her Turkish towels and wash cloths rough dried.

A hot iron actually shortens the life of silk stockings and underwear. Stockings and woolen underwear should never be ironed; silk underwear may be pressed with a warm iron.

Sheets hung straight and smooth on the line and removed from the line so that no creases are added may be put away without being ironed. To improve their

Many a woman sacrifices her self-respect and her pride to keep her home together for the sake of the children. She will endure anything from cruel taunts to physical violence in order that her children may have an unbroken home.

But is she wise? Might it not be better for her youngsters to have the memory of a peaceful childhood, even though it was with a mother alone, than savoring memories of open quarrels and bickerings?

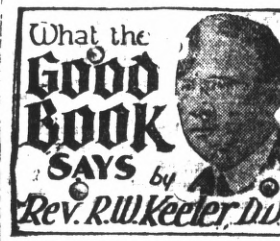

There is nothing worse for a child than to have to take sides openly or in secret with his father or his mother. There is nothing which undermines his trust in his parents so much as to stand by and watch them fighting like veritable cats and dogs. Such scenes as the one pictured below are indelibly etched, as in acid, in the impressionable brain of a child, and may do him irreparable harm, undermining his faith in those persons who should be his ideals.

Dear Patricia Lee:

I have been married nine years and have two children, a girl of 8 and a boy of 6. I am 26 years old. I can't seem to get what happened today off my mind. My two sisters, a sister-in-law of theirs, and my husband's sister were having supper with us. My husband asked me why the potatoes were not mashed. I told him I had used all the milk in making the pumpkin pie and for the children to drink. "The next time you put potatoes on the table not mashed," he said, "I'll knock you." And then he let out a string of obscene curses. Then he began throwing up how eager I am to get his pay envelope. Some weeks he is not making enough to make ends meet. When I handed him the loaf of bread he threw it across the table at me. I have found out in nine years that the less I say back to him, the better it is for me. What shall I do? I can't think of breaking up my children's home—Long Suffering.

Dear Long Suffering: It seems to me that no woman has to stand having her husband curse her in public. Your husband is probably so used to having you endure in silence that he thinks that he can say anything and do anything and that, for the sake of the children you will be completely at his mercy. He needs a lesson, that husband of yours, if, in spite of his attitude toward you, you still love him, take your children and go to some relative for a time. Let him have to mash his own potatoes for a time. If this does not bring him after you, then it seems to me that a separation might help, anything to get your children out of such an atmosphere. In this day and age of kindergartens and day nurseries you could undoubtedly earn enough to take yourself along with the amount the court would award you in a separation suit. Of course, this would be a desperate measure, but even that would be preferable to bringing your children up in an atmosphere of constant bickering.

Miss Leah Sutton, chief judge of the Charleston contest for England, writes: "My unique position in the dancing world today would never have been attained if I had not taken the proper daily care of my health.
Three years ago I suffered daily from sick headache, indigestion, biliousness and found that I constantly had that tired out, depressed feeling.
Your mild laxative has been of valuable assistance in keeping me fit."

BARRYMORE IN COSTUME PLAY AT CALIFORNIA

Even without its absorbing story and thrilling action, Warner Bros. production of "When a Man Loves" starring John Barrymore would be a great picture because of its sheer pictorial beauty.

Besides its many-sided appeal to the imagination it is an ever changing delight to the eye. No expense was spared in the erection of the gigantic settings, perfect and realistic in every least detail. The costumes of a naturally colorful and decorative period are of unparalleled magnificence and variety. The photography of these by the master who filmed "The Sea Beast" and "Zou Juan" accentuates them and addresses them with a romantic glamour which enchants the mind and gives the spectator the illusion of utter reality.

"When a Man Loves" has as its setting the gay and dissolute Paris of Louis XV when love and the chase were the chief occupations of the few and dire poverty the lot of the many. Never has Barrymore essayed a story of more power and heart appeal than this one and Dolores Costello, the adorable heroine of "The Sea Beast," has arisen to even greater dramatic heights.

The rest of the cast reads like the blue book of filmdom, including as it does, Sam De Grasse, Holmes Herbert, Warner Oland,
Marcelle Corday, Charles Clay,
Templar Stone, Eugene Bressner,
Bertram Grassby, Noble Johnson,
Stuart Holmes, Tom Santschi, Tom
Wilson and many others. Alan Crosland directed "When a Man Loves" will be screened for the last time today at the California Theatre.

Other features include "Diving
Into The Dictionary," a Hodge-Podge; "Topics of the Day;" and
"Aesop's Fables."

'Grandmother' Of War Orphans To Sing In Oakland

Twelve little orphans of fa-ing the World War hear their official grandmother, when Mme.

Gretchen Schumann-Heink sings her farewell concert in the Auditorium Theatre in Oakland next week.

The youngest of the children are now twelve years old, and the American Legion wants them to see and hear the singer who, as "mother" of the veterans, is looked upon as their "grandmother."

The announcement was made by Joseph L. Faier, Oakland lawyer and state chairman of the Child Welfare department of the American Legion, that the children would be guests of the Legion at the concert Madame Schumann-Heink will give in Oakland on February 15.

Interesting Debate
At Christian Church

A debate of unusual interest took place at the First Christian Church by representatives of the Senior Endeavor class and the endeavor class of the older folks.
The subject of the challenge made by the younger people of the church to the older people was, Resolved: That the youth of this day is superior to the youth of the preceding generation. This issue came to the fore for the reason that the young people had resented the criticism of certain prominent jurors who claimed that the youth of today was headed in the wrong direction.

Miss Bertha Thomas and Allen Moore took the affirmative and Miss Mabel Beach and Mrs. C.
Anderson chose the negative. A superior courage and ability was needed to cope with modern conditions was the stand taken by the young people. The consensus of opinion at the close of the debate was that the younger people had defended their generation ably.

Chicago Songbird

CYRENA VAN GORDON, beautiful and talented American artist, who is scheduled to appear with the Chicago Civic Opera Company during the four-day opera festival in the Oakland Auditorium beginning March 15.

Ticket Sale Opens For Oakland Opera Festival

The sale of tickets for all performances of the Chicago Civic Opera Season in Oakland opened Monday at Sherman, Clay's 14 and Clay Streets, following the subscription sale during which hundreds of reservations were made for all four nights of the Opera festival.

As the Oakland engagement is the only one in central California for the opera company, hundreds of visitors from neighboring communities are taking advantage of the opportunity thus afforded by the brief season and mail orders are pouring in daily.

Aida, Resurrection, La Gioconda and Snow Maiden (Rimsky-Kor-sakov's "Sneгурotchka," to be sung in English) are the four operas in the repertoire to be offered, which will bring such internationally celebrated artists as Mary Garden, Claudis Muzio, Rosa Raisa, Edith Mason, Georgia Folacco, Charles Marshall, Richard Bonelli, Charles Hackett, and many others in the casts.

Two special trains of ten Pullman cars each, are required to transport the company of over two hundred and fifty people, including principals, ballet, chorus, orchestra, and a technical crew of sixty men.

The company will come to Oakland following a week in Los Angeles, and following the four-day engagement in Oakland will leave

Persistence

WHEN a boy baby was born in 1908, his parents began immediately to provide for his education, and opened a savings account in the American Trust Company. The initial deposit was ten dollars. Each month thereafter a like sum was deposited. Today the savings amount to $3,665, and of this sum $1,265 is the accumulation of interest at four per cent, compounded semi-annually. The money will simply meet all the expense of fitting the boy for a professional career. That's the story of how one family solved the problem of financing a child's education. The plan is commended to all parents.

'MILLIONAIRES' FEATURE FILM AT RICHMOND

An entertaining story, perfect cast and skillful direction combine in making "Millionaires," the Warner Bros. production which opened yesterday at the Richmond Theatre, a picture worthy of the entire family's taking the evening off to see.

The story, suggested by the E.
Phillips Oppenheim novel, "The Inevitable Millionaire," tells the amusing tale of an East Side tailor's adventures, with his family, in the rarified atmosphere of fifth Avenue, when they become millionaires overnight.

George Sidney, Louise Fazenda and Vera Gordon are featured in the cast, which also includes Halloway Costello, Nat Carr, Arthur La-bin and Jana Winton, all giving excellent performances.

Herman Raymaker directed this entertaining comedy drama with unusual sympathy and understanding, and as a result "Millionaires" makes a decidedly worth while film.

Other film features on the same program include "Are Brunettes Safe," a Charley Chase comedy;
"Topics of the Day;" and "Aesop's Fables."

SENATE CALLS SINCLAIR KIN IN OIL SCANDAL

By JOHN A. KENNEDY
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—After striking a blind trial at its morning hearing, the Senate public land committee today decided to subpoena Earle Sinclair, brother of Harry P. Sinclair, the oil millionaire, in an effort to pierce the veil of mystery surrounding the mysterious Teapot Dome $3,000,000 "liberty bonds" "rush fund."

Its progress stopped temporarily by a chorus of "I don't know" from Sheldon Clark of Chicago, and H. L. Phillips of Tulsa, both Sinclair executives, the committee decided to summon a new group of oil men, in an effort to determine who received the remainder of the bonds which already have been linked with the Teapot Dome oil scandal.

STEWART HEARING TODAY
While the committee was holding a short and unproductive session, Jesse C. Adkins, president of the District of Columbia Bar Association and chief counsel for Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, laid plans before Justice Jennings Bailey on the validity of the oil baron's arrest by the Senate.

Stewart, free from the custody of the Senate by a writ of habeas corpus obtained Saturday, will contend through his lawyers that the Senate public lands committee exceeded its authority in seeking to force him to answer two questions propounded last Friday. The questions related to Stewart's knowledge of the disposition of the bonds. The oil man already had stated he had nothing to do with the bond transaction and never received a dollar from the Continental Trading Company deal.

CLARK QUIZZED
George W. Wickersham, former attorney general and past president of the American Bar Association, will defend the Senator tomorrow's hearing before Justice Bailey. His acceptance of the post was announced yesterday.

While preparations for the court hearing were in progress today, Major Pettit Gordon, district attorney, was laying plans for placing Sheldon Clark under a continuous conduct before the federal grand jury with a view to seeking an indictment.

Sheldon Clark, president of the Sinclair Refining Company, was the first witness on the stand today. He was asked by Senator Walsh if he knew anything about the Continental Trading Company bond deal.

"I don't know anything whatever about it," Clark said. "Does your company own any of the bonds?"

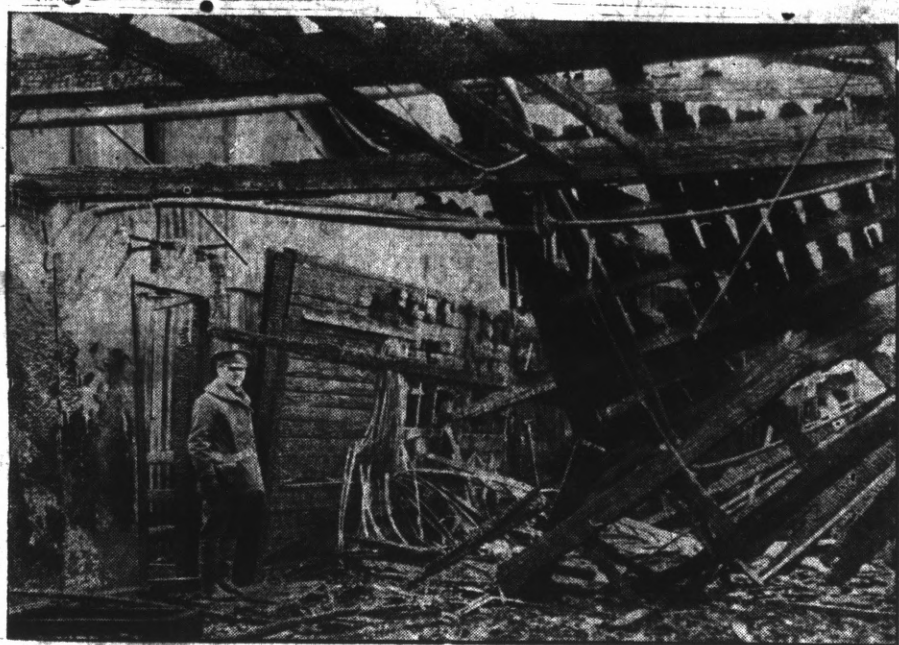

"I could not tell that off hand but I do not believe we own any," he said.

"You are excused," said Walsh. Phillips, president of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company, was the next witness. He was questioned at length about the deal by which his company joined with the Prairie Oil & Gas Company in buying oil worth $50,000,000 from the Continental Trading Company at a price which yielded the seller $8,000,000 in profits as a brokerage fee.

The substance of his testimony was that the whole transaction was engineered by Sinclair and Stewart, insofar as his company was concerned. He said he thought the deal rather unusual. The Sinclair Crude Oil Company did not receive any of the Continental Trading Company profits, he said, expressing "surprise" at learning that James B. O'Neill turned in $8,000,000 of profits from the deal to the Prairie Oil and Gas Company.

Phillips said he knew nothing about the disposition of the bonds.

TWO NATIONS REVISE TREATY 150 YEARS OLD

(The Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Joining hands over the 150-year old treaty which in international law, signified the birth of the United States, France and America today renewed the pledges of peace and friendship first forged by Benjamin Franklin in 1778, more than a decade before the constitution became effective.

The new treaty, a revision and renewal of the Root arbitration pact of 1908, was signed by Ambassador Paul Claudel of France and Under Secretary of State Robert E. Olds, ranking officer of the State Department in the absence of Secretary Kellogg, who is in Canada.

It provides machinery for the arbitration of all disputes between the two nations which do not involve France's obligations to the League of Nations or America's prerogatives under the Monroe Doctrine.

Although the preamble contains a declaration renouncing war as a means of settling international differences, this portion of the text, it is officially asserted, has not the force of the treaty proper.

Similar declarations have been made in scores of treaties throughout the world since the war. Unless they are incorporated in the body of the pact rather than in a preamble, they have the legal validity and force of an unsigned check.

On the table in the imposing diplomatic reception room adjoining the office of Secretary Kellogg, in which signatures were exchanged today, lay the original hand-written text of the Franklin treaty of 1778, which pledged French support of the American Revolution, provided a source for the military and financial assistance which was to become the decisive factor in the struggle for American independence and recognized for the first time the national unity of the American colonies.

Yellowing with age and faded almost beyond reading, the parchment still reveals the flamboyant signature of Louis XVI, whose head was soon to fall under the blade of the revolutionary guillotine.

The treaty was negotiated under the authority of the Continental Congress. The French recognition of American nationalism at a time when our military fortunes were at low ebb after the memorable winter at Valley Forge, came as a new breath of life to the ragged and bleeding troops of the revolution.

It inspired the hopes of the entire young nation. Although the treaty was replaced in twenty years by another, negotiated under the authority of the Congress established by the constitution, it still holds place in world history as one of the epochal documents of the ages.

"The first treaty," said Ambassador Claudel, "is the start to a new nation. The second treaty today is a start to a new idea. The outlawry of war is a specifically American idea, not only because it was born in America, but because it shows two marks of your country—it is great, it is practical."

How To End Constipation

If you want to get rid of constipation for good, you must cleanse the liver of its stored-up bile and set it to working right. Remember, it's torpid, lazy liver clogged with bile that keeps you constipated. This surplus bile poisons your whole system, causing headaches, bad breath, yellow skin, sour stomach, gas, indigestion, dizzy spells or other disagreeable symptoms.

All that any ordinary physician does is to force a bowel movement without getting at the liver. What you really need is a thorough internal cleansing with Plantax, which brings out all the accumulated bile and other foul secretions.

Plantax is a most effective liver tonic compounded from the juices or extracts of harmless plants, remedies from Nature's own laboratory. It acts in a gentle, easy way, no irritation or weakening of the organs. Large bottles $1. On sale at La Moine Drug Co. and all other good drug stores.

CLOTHIERS AND STRINGERS WIN CAGE VICTORIES

Basketball fans were treated to three good games played last night at the Roosevelt Junior high school gym. In the first game of the evening the Santa Fe squad lost to the McRacken Clothiers by a score of 14 to 5. In the second game Stringers walked over LaMoine's Druggists, 38 to 8 and in the last game the Crockett team defeated Ben Malik Style Leaders in a close contest, the score being 25 to 19.

The Clothiers walked all over the Santa Fe. J. Baldwin was high point man for the winners with four points; Santella had three; Wilson got three; Bowman had two and Theiste had two.

Charlie Bowen shot the only basket for the Tio Walkers. Tuula got a point and so did Villalobos and Bob Bowen.

As for the Stringer game, Crossvitch was high pointer with eleven points; Cornell got four points; Huzefka had two; Butte got seven points; Gillian chalked up ten points for second high; Malone and two points and J. Huzefka got two.

Out of the eight points made by LaMoine's, Daly made six and Schrader got a bucket.

Anderson was high man for the Crockett club. In the course of the evening he collected thirteen points; Dempsey got six; Markley had two; Desmond got one; Muller had two.

Bertone was high point man for the losers with seven points; Hutton got two; Hoskines had two; Gabberry got two; Millevich got one and Vargas was high with his usual floor game, got two.

The Stringer game makes the thirteenth victory for the Smoke House and some persons say thirteen is an unlucky number.

The lineups:
Crockett — Markley, Dempsey, Desmond, forwards; Anderson, center; Muller, Kirkhouse, guards; Ben Malik — Bertone, Hutton, Hoskines, Chatterton, forwards; Gabberry, Bonham, centers; Millevich, Paasch, McLaughlin and Vargas, guards.

While Tod Morgan, junior light-weight champ, was training in N. Y. for his match with Joe Joe Glick's, Tod's manager, Frank Churchill, happened to speak of negro fighters and ventured the opinion that if a list of greatest champions of all times was compiled without race prejudice a negro would head every division.

Churchill tells of his first meeting with Johnson, how he made the trip from Chicago to New York in 1910 as soon as he heard that the big negro was to sign with Tex Rickard for a title bout with Jim Jeffries, who was lured out of retirement by the bait of $100,000 Rickard guaranteed him to fight Johnson.

There was something magnetic about Johnson to Churchill, who was not well known in the boxing game then. He had seen him fight but never met him face to face.

Johnson made his headquarters at the dance hall of the late Barron Wilkins and through accident Churchill learned that Richard was to meet Johnson in secret at Wilkins' place, 135th Street and Lenox Avenue late that evening.

With a friend he wandered into a saloon on West 41st street and sat at a table in the back room. At a table adjoining his a seedy, well-ginned colored person, attired in a ragged black shirt, soiled overalls, rusty ox-fords and lacking socks.

He bathed in gin until he became pleasantly tipsy and gradually dozed off accompanying himself with a deep bass snore.

Churchill happened to mention his desire to meet Johnson and the negro awakened, heard the remark, "Pardon me, mister," he said "Did I hear you say you wanted to meet Jack Johnson?"

"If you want to spend 35 cents to get me a pint of gin, I'll give you a knockdown to our camp."

They looked with disdain upon the tattered negro and laughed uproariously.

"That's good gin you drink boy. You would not know Johnson if he fell on you," replied Churchill.

"Listen, white man, I'm one of the best friends Johnson ever had. I'll admit I look like a bum, but no matter how I look Johnson would never forget his buddy, who worked with him on the docks at Galveston and New Orleans and used to stake Johnson to dimes and quarters when he was broke."

"Don't give me that gin money until after I introduce you to Jack," retorted the now thoroughly aroused colored man.

Frank and his pal decided to take a chance and accompanied their acquaintance to the famous resort of the negro sports.

When they reached the hall it was so jammed with humanity, mostly negroes, they had difficulty in gaining entrance and would have withdrawn had not their guide pushed them through the entrance, truculently announcing he was "Al Thompson, a friend of Jack Johnson's."

Within the heat was insufferable, tobacco smoke befogged the room, the odor of sweaty bodies and stale beer was nauseating.

Every eye was centered upon a table in the middle of the hall, a solitary, serious white man sat with pen in hand while a huge negro, who exchanged witticisms with friends and then consulted a paper clutched between his great mitts, occupied the chair opposite the white gent.

All the while Mr. Thompson was advancing precariously. He would have been tossed out but for his two white friends and finally was halted in the solidly packed crowd around Tex Rickard and Jack Johnson.

Johnson was about to sign when high above the tense silent gathering there arose a plaintive wail.

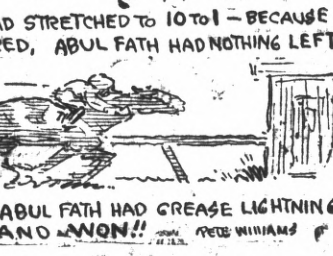

"Hey you, Jack Johnson, Al Thompson wants to sit in there with two white friends. What say, big black boy?"

Johnson dropped the pen and inquired if it was Al Thompson, the no-account longshoreman.

"Sure is," answered Al, and while Rickard squirmed impatiently Johnson arose, forced his way through the jam and brought Al Churchill and the latter's friend to the inner circle.

⑦ WELL BOYS! ABUL FATH HAD GREASE LIGHTNING ON HIS NOSE AND ANON!!

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

THERE'S A LAUGH FOR EVERY HEADACHE

This job of pinch hitting for a vacationing columnist isn't what I thought it might be when Eddie Sullivan first asked me to help fill up his space for a day. Eddie merely requested in an off-hand way:

"Oh, just dash off something about the fight game; boost something or knock something, or do whatever you wish. You see it's your column for that day, understand?"

But now that the day is here and the column also I can't see my way clear to do much with it. To begin with, it's hard work, much harder, in fact, than the business of promoting boxing bouts, out of which you at least get a laugh now and then in spite of my many headaches. I know I always get some fun out of my game, although many times the laughs come last, long after it's all over.

For example, the Sharkey-Willis bout, while no cinch to clinch, gave me a lot of fun. To begin with I had a tough time getting Willis, Lew Raymond, who was associated with Paddy Mullins, Willis' manager, was first approached. I met Lew at the Tavern by appointment and we hemmed and hawed over the bout, not getting very far. Lew was leary of the match. It didn't mean much to Willis in the way of prestige at that time and it meant so much to Sharkey.

I was about to give up when I spied Demon Runyon coming toward us, and I invited him to sit down.

"What do you think of a Sharkey-Willis match, Damon?" I asked in the manner of a salesman who expects a favorable answer, and I might add, totally unprepared for what followed.

"Why, I think Sharkey would cuff the ears off him," he answered. "No! No! No!" I stuck in hastily. "What do you think it would draw."

"Why I think Sharkey and Willis would pack Ebbsfeld Field," Damon replied, and added as an afterthought, "Say, you mean that big Sharkey from Boston, don't you?"

"Why, yes."

"Oh, he's a good card."

I could tell by the changed expression on Raymond's face that he was sold, as the saying goes.

But Paddy Mullins, when we met later in my office, wasn't so sure. You know, Paddy is one of those quiet fellows who would go to any trouble rather than inconvenience you in the slightest. And, as you've probably heard, he chews tobacco. At the side of my desk is one of those large brass cuspidors and I noticed during the many conferences Paddy made use of it.

Finally we had a showdown meeting and as Paddy entered the room I moved the brass thing under the desk with my foot. Paddy sat in a chair opposite to me and the conference was on.

There was talk and more talk with Paddy taking sly peeks over the side of the desk every so often, but never saying a word about the missing article.

As the conference wore on his cheeks fairly bulged and his eyes watered. But never a word came from his lips.

At last I nodded to Paddy: "Well, what do you say, Paddy? Does Willis or not?"

He couldn't talk. He just bobbed yes, very quickly and then sputtered:

"Shay, Jack, where's that thing, anyway?"

Paddy, however, was one of the easiest managers I ever did business with. On the other hand, Pete Reilly, who was managing Jack Delaney when I made the Delaney-Berlenbach bout, was perhaps the toughest. Pete is a shrewd, cool, calculating pilot who gets what he wants.

And your personal comfort is never safe while Pete is around. He'll hand you a contract and while you're reading it he'll sneak under the desk and give you one of his famous "hot foots" that will sting for ten minutes. Or he'll bend over your shoulder, feigning to read it and slip a piece of ice from the water cooler into your coat pocket. Hours after he has gone you may be talking business with some one and dip into your pocket for a match or cigarette and find instead a small lake.

PETE REILLY WOULD HAVE HIS LITTLE JOKE
And speaking of Reilly reminds me that he gave me the worst scare of my career just a few days before the Delaney-Berlenbach bout at Ebbsfeld Field.

He got me on the telephone at my home about 2 in the morning. I answered, half asleep, and at first couldn't make out what he was driving at. He seemed very excited.

Burglars Loot Home While Family Away

PITTSBURG, Feb. 6. — While members of the E. Cardinall family were away from their home, 195 W. 7th street, between 7 and 10 o'clock Saturday night burglars raided the home of the retired fisherman and escaped with money and jewelry easily of the value of over $1,000.

Dresser drawers and secret hiding places of money were ransacked, $320 in currency and $80 in gold being taken from a drawer where Cardinall insists he alone knew it was hidden.

Other loot besides articles of women's clothing and a revolver consisted chiefly of jewelry, including a ladies ring set with pearls and rubies, gold bracelet, two rings, ear ring set, breast pin, and a gold watch, all set with precious stones.

Sheriff's deputies from Martinez are assisting the Pittsburg police in seeking to unravel the mystery.

about Jack and himself leaving Ebbsfeld Field together. I blew up "What was Delaney doing at Ebbsfeld Field this afternoon?" I demanded of Reilly.

"Delaney," came his voice; "Delaney? Who said anything about Delaney? I'm trying to tell you that I was at Ebbsfeld Field this afternoon and that I saw Jack Fournier turn his ankle, and that he will be lost to the Dodgers for a month. Isn't that a shame?"

I guess it's best that we omit the rest of that telephonic conversation.

Yes, there are a lot of laughs in the boxing game, although more often than you don't appreciate them until long after they arrive.

Flowers Vs. L. Tenorio In Six Reels

TENNIS CLUB ADMITTED TO N. C. T. LEAGUE

A team of six men will be chosen from matches being played by the Richmond Tennis club to represent the locals in games with Bay City teams. Games played the early part of next week indicate that there is some good material that will offer the opponents from the outside stiff competition.

Among the sets played have been those of Henry Bill, who had a hard time defeating H. L. Hunn by the games 9-7; 4-6; 8-6.

A. S. Remmel defeated Wally Kruger by superior service by game scores 6-4 and 6-4.

Rain interfered with the third game of Bob Radke and Louie Schmidt after each player had won a set by a 6-3 score.

The local club has petitioned the Northern California Tennis league for membership and have just been notified that the application has been accepted.

EL CERRITO CITY COUNCIL FIXES OFFICERS' SALARIES AND ENDORSES NEW HIGHWAY

Salaries of the city clerk and treasurer of El Cerrito were fixed at $150 per month each, in a resolution which passed its first reading at the meeting of the council Monday night.

The new salaries provided an increase of $25 per month in the clerk's office, and the treasurer's salary remains the same. The new salaries will go into effect after the final passage and will be paid to the officers elected in April.

A warrant for $3000 for the property of O. G. Walker, adjacent to the city hall on Masilla avenue, was passed by the council and the transfer will take place this week.

Communication from the El Cerrito Social Service Bureau, thanking the council for their cooperation and the $75 donation was placed on file.

Resolution asking Governor C. C. Young to have an appropriation made for an all-year highway to Nevada through Oroville and Quincy was passed by the council in order to have a more direct route to eastern points.

The resolution was passed on the request of the North Bay Highway association.

Sydney S. Clark Enters Bond Firm In San Francisco

Sydney S. Clark, formerly a realtor of Richmond, is now associated with the stock and bond firm of Plunkett-Philanthropic & Company of 232 Montgomery street, San Francisco, according to an announcement released by him yesterday afternoon.

Clark in disposing of his interests several weeks ago to his brother, Claude E. Clark, stated that he was doing so to enter a brokerage firm.

Through activity in various business enterprises in Richmond, Clark has made for himself a host of friends in this city who will be interested in his new business connections across the bay. Clark came to Richmond in connection with the financing of the ferry line to San Francisco, which was later absorbed by the Southern Pacific. He established later the Sydney S. Clark company and was associated with the Rotary club, and other organizations and had a part in organizing the Contra Costa Finance and Loan company. Most of his business career has been in the financial lines to which he has retired with Plunkett-Lillenthal.

The brokerage house of Plunkett Lillenthal & Co., San Francisco, members of the San Francisco Stock Exchange and San Francisco Curb Exchange, had its beginnings less than 10 years ago although the senior partner, James L. Plunkett, has been identified with the brokerage business on the coast since 1904. At that time he came from the New York office of E. F. Hutton & Co. and with R. E. Mulcahy, established that firm's San Francisco office. Subsequently he was associated with J. C. Wilson until 1908.

Just last week the firm moved into imposing new quarters at 232 Montgomery street, in the Mills building, from the lobby of which the offices are also reached by side and rear entrances. A massive quotation blackboard covering almost the entire length of one wall, is the dominating installation. Private offices for the partners, the statistical department and other departments are provided.

Services for Sacco will be held Wednesday morning from St. Joseph's Church in Pinole and interment will be in the family plot at Rio Vista. The body will be taken to the U. P. E. C. hall by Bert Curry, local undertaker, where it will lie in state until Wednesday morning.
